Who is this for?

API Horizons is particularly well suited to families looking for thoughtful, high-quality support for a young person who is:

- ambitious but in need of clearer structure, confidence or direction;
- looking for personalised guidance
- studying French or Spanish and aiming to make strong academic progress;
- preparing for GCSE, IGCSE, A Level or a competitive university application;
- balancing education with demanding sporting commitments;
- interested in languages as a route to future study, travel, sport or international opportunities;

What might support look like?

Student need	Possible support	Intended outcome
Family weighing educational options	Focused consultancy conversation followed by clear next steps	A decision-making framework shaped around the child rather than generic advice
GCSE student lacking confidence in French speaking	Targeted weekly tuition, speaking routines, vocabulary systems and exam practice	Greater fluency, stronger examination technique and more independent learning
Competitive young athlete with an international pathway	Flexible tuition, language for sport and coordination around training or competition	Academic continuity and better preparation for international environments
Sixth-form student considering Modern Languages	Academic enrichment, application planning and interview-style discussion	A more informed application and stronger ability to articulate subject interest

Start with a conversation

If you are considering support for your child, the first step is a conversation about where they are now and where they want to go. There is no assumption that every family needs the same service or programme.
